The APS Aspiring Leaders Program is a comprehensive, year-long leadership development initiative designed to prepare 42 high-potential educators for school leadership roles within Atlanta Public Schools. Structured across the full academic year from August through May, the program integrates five core pillars — Professional Development, Hands-On Practice, Community of Practice, Personalized Coaching, and individualized 70/20/10 Development Plans — to develop leaders across six PSEL-aligned competency domains. Participants engage in monthly coaching sessions, school improvement projects, essential experiences, and simulation-based practice to bridge theory and applied leadership. The program's multi-modal design ensures both accountability and growth, culminating in a formal School Improvement Project presentation and end-of-year reflection.
